

About Community Action in North Dakota

The Community Action Partnership of North Dakota (CAPND) is a private, non-profit membership organization which represents and supports the eight Community Action Agencies in North Dakota. Each of these regional agencies provide unique programs and services in all 53 counties across the state to help combat the causes and conditions of poverty in their communities.

The Affordable Connectivity Program

The Affordable Connectivity Program is an FCC benefit program that helps ensure that households can afford the broadband they need for work, school, healthcare and more. The benefit provides a discount of up to $30 per month toward internet service for eligible households and up to $75 per month for households on qualifying Tribal lands. Community Action Agencies in North Dakota have been spreading awareness of the program and assisting households with applying for the benefit since August 2023.

Whole Family Program

Over the past year, Community Action in North Dakota has begun working expanding on the Whole Family Program statewide. This program is a case management program designed to help the entire family improve their well-being and social and economic mobility. Participants set goals and lead the program by identifying their hopes and dreams, strengths, and challenges.
